

I strenuously object to any change in the New Jersey Do Not Call Law. I detest being called by telemarketers and sales people I have no desire to do business with. They are a nuisance at best! My number is unlisted, yet due to the sharing of information by companies I do and have done business with; and in spite of the fact that I have filled out request forms asking that my information not be shared, I am still occasionally called by telemarketers during business hours. To overturn, revise or relax the Telephone Consumer Protection Act would be a huge mistake and outrage everyone I know of. After a long day and week of working to support our families the last thing any of us need is to have to deal with unwanted solicitation calls. We should be spared that aggravation at the very least and I feel it is the responsibility of our government officials and institutions to consider the needs of the people before and above the interests of big business.
